APP Iterations

Buttons

From the feedback we got at the showcase and the feedback from our client we got to know that the buttons look like Duolingo. So I decided to change it a little bit.

One of the elements that remind people of Duolingo are the rectangles. I made the choice to change it to squares.

I asked others and they said the squares are a better option for a more unique application.

Iteration color of the page names at the showcase we also got feedback from users that the names of the pages that are beneath the icons aren't that readable and they suggested to make the color darker. We had a lighter color because we already had icons that would already help to navigate between pages. But after testing this with other we realized that isn't the case. When the application gets familiar over time this could be the case.

I changed it to a darker color and now new users find it easier to read and navigate between pages.
