

Career day

A couple week ago I went to the Career day. The most important thing at the moment were the specialization, because we had to make a decision in a short time. I went for more information at Front-end Development. It's something I would like to do later. I got the information that it's very broad there are many options what you can do, even app development. At first I thought only Smart Mobile would teach app development.

After this I went to explore at other companies to see what they do for later in the future Indicia, Stuurman, Ministerie van Defensie and Equine integration.

Conclusion

This Career day helped me to show interest and to ask questions. I got to know that at some companies you have a very specific task to do and with others it is very broad. It would really depend on me later what I would like to do .
